Keep it to two words or less. Hidden Valley Lake has been our home for 30 yrs. We love what it offers. It would be nice to have a name that represents that. Something with dignity and pride.

Please don't name it Foursome Cafe

A one word reference would be convenient: Greenview, Mulligan's, Caddy Shack maybe

Keep it simple, smart and classy

Members only

Keeping the Greenview name and maybe even naming the bar back to Mulligans would probably be well received locally. I'd keep it simple and tasteful (unlike many of the proposed suggestions). But if you want to go full Monty...maybe Foursome at The Hartmann or ... I'm sorry, some of these were extra bad. Just fix the food and service maybe before you change the name. We were big supporters but at this point it's pretty terrible (we used to go all the time). Finding an actual bartender would be a great start.

Food is gross. Don't matter what the name is. As long as the same chef is there the food will be horrible.

The Greenview is as good (if not better) name than others suggested and is familiar both inside and outside the community. It eludes to the golf course but doesn't sound overly golf related. Since the business plan is to appeal to a wide audience outside HVL, it seems that names that aren't overly associated with golf would be a good thing. Perhaps a catchy name for the bar that also eludes to golf without making it sound like a place that would be overrun with inebriated golfers. I really like Hartman Oaks. The historic nature of the Hartman Ranch could be a part of the marketing and the remaining oaks could be featured in a logo and/or highlighted with lighting at night.

I feel that the association should be canvassed through the Flash Vote for names. Where did the ideas for possible names come from?

I feel like these are all relevant to our area and population. I would be happy with any of these

We need visitors and potential new owners to know where the golf course restaurant is located. Keep it simple keep it classy

I also like the Hidden Valley Country Club to represent the building we lost.

Definitely need a new name but I hope it won't be a cafe

Hartmann Greenview

Should include "Hidden Valley" for easy internet search. Don't make it hard for people to find. If they can't find it, they won't make an effort to come to it.

Should reflect the Whole community, not just golf as many of these do.

Nothing referring to golf. You will be inciting trife.

The Condor is the rarest score in golf and the bird has a great comeback story as well as a deep-rooted mythology

Hidden Valley Lake Restaurant

I gravitate toward the names that aren't "cutesy" or puns on golf terminology. Rustic, local character is good, casual and a little classy.

don't build it

Cost to much

Just want to make sure my suggestions went through: Bogeys Bar and Grill (like this because of nick name) " I'll meet you at Bogeys!" Like second choice of Hartmann Bar and Grill because it has the location in the name ☺

None. Get rid of it.

I am concerned that this would be a costly undertaking in many ways.

The golf theme should be suggestive not overt. The namers of the Greenview recognized this. There are more non-golfers than players and in attracting outside diners the name must reflect the beautiful, multi-functional building in a great community. BTW, Hidden Valley Lake Restaurant is a horrible, lame name.

Please avoid "cute" and go towards sophisticated. It will dramatically help marketing efforts

No. Restaurant will be fabulous with any name

Hidden Valley Lake building

Thanks for doing a vote! Good idea!!

Keep it classy and simple (the logo too)

We should take advantage of any of the current branding (including websites, phone numbers, menus, etc...) when naming the new building so we can best utilize any brand value already in the name. Doing so will also decrease the expenses associated with the startup of the new business.

It should not be connected to any specific amenity (i.e. should not have a golf affiliation).

Hidden Valley Bar & Grill or Mulligans

Really?!

In the interest of community healing, please omit names exclusive to golf. Thank you

The Iron Tavern/Bar and Grill

I think making sure that the name isn't too specific such as "InsertName Bar" when it's more than just a bar would be a good idea. If it's more general like the Iron Gardens option you have the luxury of applying it to essentially whatever aspect of the new building you want. Also, there is already an Out of Bounds in Rocklin and in Folsom. Not sure if that matters or not because of how far away it is, but figured I'd share just in case. :) Looking forward to the opening.

IT'S STILL THE GREENVIEW...KEEP IT THAT WAY! NO NEED TO CHANGE THE NAME. IF IT AIN'T BROKE DONT FIX IT.

The Greenview suits it.

Keep it Greenview. Might as well

wasteofdenaro club

The restaurant is not a member voted on amenity. Therefore I will not participate anything related to it

Thanks for the waste of money and increase in dues

Hidden Valley Lake Bar & Grill "dba" (doing business as) HVL Bar & Grill

The Recall

We should some type of tavern in the restaurant name

It should reflect a name that sounds as classy as the new facility itself and different enough that when you mention it by name, you know what and where it is.

My first choice is leave it the same except that building should Hidden Valley Lake Golf Club, then name restaurant and bar separately. If we want more outside play then marketing efforts should feature same Hidden Valley Lake branding. Never confuse the public who owns and runs the golf course.

Let an outsider run the restaurant!

The Greenview Club at HVL. (Us old timers will probably just keep calling it the Greenview, lol!)

Mulligans bay and grill. Keep it the same.

It was mentioned that weddings may be held there, so something appropriate for a wedding invitation.

Name should bring in thoughts of food and joy for the customer.

How about naming it for it's namesake legacy. Murphys Law

The restaurant should be sold to a private person and not bleed off the association funds

I suggested "The Watering Hole" because it's a "gathering place".
